FISHERMEN IN GOOD LUCK

Fishermen in this section report some fine catches in spite of the overflowing streams caused by recent rainstorm.

No infractions of the fishing laws have been heard of.

A "whale" of a trout was caught by Glenn Daugherty, of Betula, in Potato Creek just outside the town. It measured 23½ inches, and tipped the scales at 3 pounds and 5 ounces, and was a fine specimen of German Brown.

The catch was made on the first day of the season. Daugherty hooked the fish, and played him fifteen minutes, when a sudden leap and a twist broke the hook, and the trout got away. He baited again, and a few minutes later, the same fish took the second hook, and shortly after was landed. The broken hook was in its mouth. The fact of the trout coming back the second time is considered strange by trout fishermen who say that this fish seldom bites soon after getting away.

Many anglers have been discouraged by the swollen streams of the past week, but a large number have secured their licenses, and undoubtedly there will be some fine specimens caught within the coming week.

Those of local fishermen who did well on the first day were: Harry Ness, 24; Alfred Petruzzi, 23; Dr. A. R. Livermore, 15; Dr. Robert Mowrey, of Pittsburg, guest of the preceding, 4; Fenton Whalen, 13; Webb Hopper, 9; Ralph Verdoin 4. Practically all these fish were taken on the Olds Rod and Gun Club lands.

Fenton Whalen, "Doc" Hazen, and Dr. Livermore have been appointed fish wardens for the season.

It is expected that within a week or two about 75,000 trout will be sent here from the State Fisheries Department for distribution in the streams adjacent to Smethport. That number was promised some time ago, and should arrive very soon.

Mr. E. E. Studholme and sons and Harry Backus, Jr. fished in Boyer Brook the first day of the season, and caught several. Harry got wet, however, taking an accidentally plunge.

Although the place of business is now open for storage purposes, the real work will begin the first of the month. Mr. Smith is a adept mechanic, and widely known in the Farmers Valley section.

"Spook" of Murdered Woodsman Heard in a Cabin Near Betula Claims Elias Smeed

Tortured and restless, the ghost of a woodsman murdered five years ago in a cabin in the Norwich township woods back of Betula, stalks there nightly, and his dying wail often mingles with the howl of the wind through the Styxgian woods.

Elias Smeed, a woodsman who has spent the winter months in the haunted cabin, claims that night after night he has lain awake in horror and has listened to the heavy distinct tread of an unseen something on the stairs leading to the second floor. The sounds always have proceeded upon each step of the staircase until reaching the top they cease, and outside the cabin the mournful cry then pierces the night.

Mr. Smeed a short time ago related to a Miner representative all that occurred at the cabin during the winter months and when he was last seen he was still hearing the strange sounds.

The spirit he thinks is that of J. Ralph, a woodsman who was murdered by Archie Turner, a fellow worker. Ralph was downstairs joking with some woman of the camp, and Turner lay intoxicated, it is said, in a bunk upstairs. Turner, called to Ralph to leave the cabin and instead Ralph went up the stairs. As he reached the top step, Turner drew a revolver from under his pillow, and fired, striking Ralph in the head. Ralph groaned and fell backward mortally wounded, dying a few moments later. Turner was found guilty and served a penitentiary sentence.

Therefore, Smeed believes that the sounds he hears going up the stairs, and ceasing at the top step are those of Ralph's spirit. He apparently has an iron nerve, and a total fearlessness of spirits or ghosts, as often, to make certain of his belief, he has counted the footsteps of the wrath and later in daylight has found that the steps correspond to the number of footsteps he heard during the night on the stairs.

The first instance the inexplainable sounds were heard occurred early last winter, when Smeed and four other woodsmen had retired for the night. Smeed and one of the others were awake, and the other three were asleep.

Downstairs a dull heavy thud was heard as though some weighty object had fallen to the floor of the building. Smeed and the other men went down stairs thinking that a bag of their provisions had dropped from a nail on the wall.

But everything was in place and there were no signs that anyone had been inside the building as the doors and windows were secured. The men believed the incident strange, but went to bed, and heard nothing more that night.

About three days later, Smeed says he was preparing the morning meal just before dawn, when he heard a similar thud upon the roof of a lean-to, built in the rear of the cabin. Following the thud, something slid slowly off the lean-to roof. Smeed thought at first of snow, but then he knew there was no snow. He went outside, and looked at the lean-to roof, and nothing was there, to explain the sound.

There were no tree branches near it, nor any object upon the ground that apparently had slid from the roof. This set the woodsman to thinking seriously, and he reflected upon the murder which had been committed in the cabin.

Now he thinks, possibly that the same ghastly reason for the sounds on the stairs was responsible for the thudding noise on the roof and the downstairs of the cabin. The latter sounds, he says, seemed much as though a human body had dropped upon the lean-to roof and slid gruesomely off into thin air.

However, it was not until later that he began hearing the footsteps.

The Betula ghost rivals the Antigonish in Nova Scotia of a few weeks ago, when scientists, physicians, detectives and newspapermen from all over the country went to Canada to investigate the tales of mysterious fires in the home of Alexander McDonald and found however, that these fires were caused by a giant wireless station nearby.

There is no explanation, according to the residents of Betula and vicinity, of the sounds which Smeed and the other men have heard, and a close watch is being kept on the cabin by other woodsmen in the vicinity, some of whom have faith in the belief that the spirit is really there. If the strange happenings continue at the cabin, an investigation will undoubtedly result to either confirm the cause of the strange sounds to a spirit origin, or to result in an explanation of them from material sources.

One family who had resided in the cabin after the murder say they heard nothing of ghostly nature while there, but admit they might have heard the sounds, but paid no attention to them.

The region about Betula has produced some wierd ghost tales.

Some of the inhabitants claim to have seen strange lights on lonely roads in the night, others are sure they have seen shadowy forms flitting from tree to tree in the dense woods.

A home about two miles from the town, now torn down, produced some time ago a tale which is almost incredible. Several men playing cards downstairs, heard something walking across the floor above. The footsteps came down the stairway, opened the stairdoor, and went across the room in which the men were sitting frozen to their seats in horror. Then a door leading outside, opened, and the footsteps continued down the roadway until lost in the distance. The door had been left wide open by the unseen object, but the men had seen no form nor shape go through the room.

Another resident a few days ago told a Miner representative of the fact that while a youngster, he was sitting up late with an ill sister, when a knock sounded upon the door. He called his father, who opened the door to admit a wraith-like white casket, which seemed to be borne in mid-air. Then the casket disappeared, and the next day, the sister died.

Ralph Schoonmaker, at present a soldier in training at Fort Niagaria, N. Y., and a former high school student here, was accidentally shot in the leg recently, according to a letter to the Miner from James K. Barry, of Fort Niagara.

The young man was on guard duty when the automatic pistol he was carrying in a holster exploded and the bullet entered his leg at the knee and came out at the ankle. The ball did not strike a bone, however, so that the soldier will not be crippled. He is now in a hospital, recovering rapidly. He is expected to be able to get out of bed in another week.

Persons wiring their homes now in expectation of the electric current which will be brought here soon under the contract between the borough and the Keystone Electric Company are warned by local promotors of the electrical movement to secure a decision from the Association of Insurance Underwriters that their wiring is properly installed before paying for the job.

This, local persons should do for their own protection, it is said. Because if the homes are wired and paid for, and then found faulty by investigators who will come later, the customers will have no redress.

Mayor Brasted has issued a proclamation inviting all local persons to take part in the celebration, and the event will be an important one.

The committee, of which Mrs. Scott Redfield is chairman, is now putting the various prospective participants through strenuous rehearsals so that the numbers will be exceptionally well presented.

Several persons whose voices are well-known here have been given solos for the evening, and the church choirs will join in two selections, besides the community singing numbers in which everyone will form a great chorus of songs familiar to all.

The program is as follows:

15. Onward Christian Soldiers, Community Chorus.

The following is a proclamation by Burgess D. M. Brasted to local citizens.

Whereas, Governor William C. Sproul has designed the week of April 30, as Pennsylvania Music Week with the splendid aim of stimulating interest in the splendid benefits and inspiration of Community Singing and as the Smethport Travelers' Club has taken the initiative in providing a public program by a large Community Chorus, Tuesday, May 2nd, is hereby officially designated as Pennsylvania Music Day in Smethport.

Music is healthful to mind and body. It stirs the soul and rests the tired brain. It is one of the greatest sources of inspiration and one of our greatest assets of wealth, but by the same token one of our most neglected boons. Our young men possessed it, but did not know it. It took the training of wartime camps to develop their deep-chested, robust, pleasing voices. Then they went singing to victory! The weary world took heart at the appearance of these singing soldiers on the field of battle. Community singing is doing for cities and towns what the training camps did for our valiant soldiers. It is teaching citizens to sing and enjoy music. To enjoy music is to receive one of the greatest benefits of our existence. It brings contentment and the inspiration which leads to better citizenry. Pennsylvania Music Week is bound to increase interest in music in Pennsylvania, Smethport Music Day is sure to stimulate interest in music here in Smethport.

Therefore, it is desired that all citizens of Smethport assemble at the Court House Tuesday evening, May 2nd, at 8:00 o'clock and participate in the splendid program that has been arranged, and which is bound to be highly enjoyable, as well as beneficial to community welfare.

D. M. BRASTED, Burgess.

FATHER OF LOCAL WOMEN DIED ON FRIDAY LAST.

Shinglehouse, April 12—James Russel died at his home on second street in Shinglehouse on Friday evening, April 7, after a brief illness of the infirmities of old age. He had a severe illness a few weeks ago but had recovered and was up about town until a few days before his death.

The deceased was born in the county of Tipperary, Ireland, on September 7, 1832 coming to America with his parents when he was 18 years old. For 3 years he lived at Cuba, N. Y., and Rochester, N. Y. Later he moved to Newell Creek then a wilderness, where he cleared up a large farm and lived for 60 years. On August 7, 1866 he was united in marriage to Miss Alice Deming, and they have been a happy and contented couple, and have reared a family of twelve children.

James Russell was a good, honest farmer and citizen, a man who was good to his family and held in high regard by his neighbors and friends. A general, whole souled man who always had a cheerful word for all whom he met. He will be greatly missed in the home circle as well as by his many friends. Besides the sorrowing widow she is survived by the following children: Mrs. William Ridgeford and Mrs. L. A. Beyer of Smethport, Mrs. W. P. Lynch of Eldred, Mrs. Geo. Waters and Mrs. E. J. Haughney of Bartlesville, Okla., Mrs. Mattie Waters, Mrs. Cecil Voorhees and Miss Rose Russell of Shinglehouse, James, Thomas and William Russell, who are engaged in the oil fields in the middle west and John Rusell of Eldred.

The body was taken to Eldred yesterday, and funeral held in St. Raphael's church, and which was largely attended by many of his old friends in that section. The interment was made in the Eldred cemetery.

BASEBALL WORLD MOURNS "POP" ANSON'S DEATH

Chicago, April 15.—Adrian Anson, old time baseball player, known to a millions of fans as "Pop" Anson, died yesterday at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. Anson was stricken while on walking last Sunday and was rushed to a hospital where he was operated on for glandlar trouble. For a day or two his condition was critical, but then he rallied and was thought he was out of danger. Yesterday, however, he suffered a relapse.

Mr. Anson was more than 70 years old; but, despite his age, was active in outdoor life up to a few days before his death; only recently becoming manager of a new golf club.

Adrian Constantine Anson occupied a unique position in the history of American baseball. His diamond career began with the period which marked the birth of the professional player and closed after the professional league and game was firmly established as an American institution. To the present day fan he was "Pop" Anson a player of the past, surrounded with a mass of legendary baseball deeds and records. To those of his generation he was Captain Anson, the greatest player of them all; the forerunner and peer of Dan Brothers, Roger Conner, Pat Tebeau, Jiggs Donahue, Dan McGann, Frank Chance, Hal Chase, Jake Daubert and others who have made baseball history at first base.

GLASS WORKERS SEEK JOBS ON THE FARM.

National Glass Budget: There were no new developments in the window glass trade during the last week. In the trade circles sentiment may be summed up in the statement that the majority of people are disappointed at present demand but look for an expansion in the volome of business during the rest of 1922, and for a big and profitable year in 1923. As the spring weather advances it is apparent that many men who have been working at their trades in hand plants will, owing to the approach of warm weather, pack up and go to other vocations, many to farming. From some sections the report comes that it is possible that one-fourth of the men who have been working steadily in hand plants since the beginning of the present period have, or soon will quit. This will have a material effect on the production of hand made glass and possibly on how long some of the plants will stay in operation.—Kane Republican.

HILL CONVICTED SECOND DEGREE; 10 YEARS.

Ridgway, April 12.—"Guilty of murder in the second degree," was the surprising verdict rendered in the case of the commonwealth vs. William Hill, charged with the killing of Margaret Warmbrodt at Johnsonburg on December 12, 1921. According to newspaper men who followed the case closely, they expected a verdict of first degree murder or that the jury would decide Hill was insane and therefore not accountable for his actions.

Immediately following the verdict which was given to the court at 9 o'clock this morning, a recess of one hour was taken and upon the reconvening of the court Judge Baird imposed the following sentences:

Georgia Monea, convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing of Edward Dill at Johnsonburg on the night of December 4, 1921, sentenced to be electrocuted, date not set.

Frank and Lorenzo Monea, who pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the killing of Edward Dill and whose lawyers were sentenced as follows: Frank to serve not less than 12 or more than 15 years and Lorenzo not less than 10 or more than 12 years in the Western penitentiary.

William F. Hill, second degree murder, for the killing of Margaret Warmbrodt, not less than 10 or more than 20 years in the Western penitentiary.

100-YEAR-OLD MAN DIES IN OLEAN.

Olean, April 12.—Enoch Maxson for many years a resident of Ceres township, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ada Freeman of Olean, Saturday afternoon from the infirmities of old age. The old gentleman was 100 years old on January 15, 1922, and during the past 18 years has been tenderly cared for by his daughter.

His life was spent in lumbering and farming. He was of a kindly disposition, a good citizen and held in highest esteem by his neighbors. Besides the daughter with whom he resides, he is survived by two sons, Anson Maxson of Ceres and Erwin Maxson of Horse Run, 19 grandchildren, 35 great grandchildren and 1 great-grandchild.

Prayer was held at the house Monday afternoon at 1:30 and the funeral was held in the S. D. B. church at Main Settlement at 3 o'clock, Rev. G. R. Williamson of Olean officiating. The interment was made in the nearby cemetery.

DONOLD DUDLEY SEEKS FAME BY MOVIE STUNTS.

Port Allegany, April 13.—Donald Dudley, who created a sensation a week or two back when he claimed to have been mysteriously stabbed, and again when he later confessed that he did the stabbing himself, is again in the limelight. On Sunday evening he frightened some of the women living along East Mill street half out of their wits when he went down to the creek bank and rolled around there, then went into the creek and ran up and down the bed of the creek with all his clothes on, yelling and making a considerable disturbance. Mr. Evans finally went down to the creek and took the young man into his house, where he had been staying since the stabbing episode. People in that neighborhood made a complaint the next morning to J. W. Seltz, who is his probation officer when Dudley is in Port Allegany, and Mr. Seltz promptly phoned the Superintendent of the Elmira Reformatory, telling him the circumstances. The Superintendent instructed Mr. Seltz to send Dudley to Buffalo, where he was to report to his probation officer in that place immediately. He left on the nine o'clock train Monday morning. Persons who have observed Dudley's antics during the past few weeks are inclined to think that he might be somewhat cracked in his upper story. It is said that the family of Walter Evans, for whose benefit he confessed to staging the stabbing story have moved away from town to get away from his unwelcome attentions.—Port Allegany Argus.

JUDGE ORMEROD DEAD.

Coudersport, April 13.—Former Judge John Ormerod, and for a great many years one of Potter County's best known citizens, died at his home in Pasadena, California, last Sunday morning following an illness extending over a period of several weeks. Funeral services were held from his late home Tuesday and in keeping with his expressed wishes, the body has been shipped to Coudersport and funeral services will be held from the Community Cathedral Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

THIEVES ENTER TWO BRADFORD HOUSES.

Bradford, April 16.—On Friday sneak thieves entered the residence of Dr. Kerr on East Main street, some time during Friday night and while the place gave the appearance of being ransacked as near as could be learned nothing of value was taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerr are absent from the city, but before they departed they gave the key of the house to a neighbor, who has been looking after the place since their departure. When the neighbor went into the place he saw that a window in the rear of the house had been broken and the back door unlocked and an investigation revealed the fact that some thief had ransacked the place.

The house of a man named White who resides on Melvin avenue, was also entered early Friday evening between six and nine o'clock in the evening by breaking a rear window light and unbolting a door. While the place was gone through by the burglars they failed to secure anything of value.

CHASES BOYS A DISTANCE OF 218 MILES.

Emporium, April 13.—After a steady chase of two days and a night, through several counties, covering a distance of 218 miles of mostly mountainous country, trailed by hunting camps and along railroads, the three Brookens boys were captured near Stokesdale, Tioga county, by the posse of two State police and three Cameron county officers, whose diligent search deserves much credit.

The party, consisting of Deputy Sheriff James Wright, State Game Protector John B. Ross and Constable Howard Dodge, of Emporium, with State Policemen M. L. Cranisman and A. J. Banisk, of Butler Barracks, had been scouring the woods in the Tamarack and Cross Forks region for the fugitives, who had successfully dodged the officers of the law since the robbery of Counsil Bros.' store at Sinnamahoning on the 30th of March.

They were traced from Drury run to Cross Forks and Cherry Springs by keeping the trail of their camping places. The officers left their cars at Galeton and tracked them on foot to Ansonia and until they came to a railroad cut on the N. Y. Central near Stokesdale. Two officers were placed in the front of the cut and three in the rear, cutting off possible escape. Weary, footsore and hungry, no resistance was made by the captives, who were well armed with automatic pistols and a good supply of ammunition. The captives and their captors arrived here Friday evening and were given a short hearing that was continued Saturday afternoon in Justices of the Peace Judd's office, when the three Brookens and Leslie Parker, all of Renovo, pleaded guilty to all charges brought against them excepting the robbery of the Kreider store at Driftwood.

OIL PAINTING ORIGINAL DRAKE OIL WELL.

An oil painting of the original Drake oil well, drilling in on Watson flats, just east of the city of Titusville, in August 27, 1859, was placed in the window of James Hogan's cigar store, at Titusville and attracted considerable attention from pedestrians passing this corner. The painting came into the possession of John Richards, of Buffalo, N. Y., about twenty years ago and it was reproduced from a photograph made by the late John Mather on August 17, 1861. In the picture, standing beside the well may be seen Col Drake, wearing a tall silk hat and near him is Peter Wilson. Three boys landing nearby are sons of William Smith, the driller who put down the well.

14-YEAR-OLD GIRL SWALLOWS RUBBER BALL

Shinglehouse, April 13.—While playing with a small rubber ball about one-half in in diameter Sunday evening, Miss Agnes Franz 14 year old, swallowed it. A physician was called but he was unable to remove it from her throat and the young lady was taken to the Higgins hospital by her brother, A. J. Franz, and an operation performed on her stomach, but the ball was not found. Yesterday it was reported that X-ray pictures that were taken located it in the tube just above the stomach. The young ladys many friends hope that nothing serious comes of this accident.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

For Congress
WILLIAM IRVIN SWOOPE,
of Clearfield, Pa.

Subject to the decision of the Republican voters of the Twenty-third Congressional District, including Cameron, Clearfield, Center and McKean Counties, at the Spring Primaries, May 16th, 1922.

Now that John S. Fisher is out of the race for the governorship, it is up to the Republicans voters of the State to decide between the two remaining candidates, Attorney General George E. Alter, of Allegheny county, and State Forester Gifford Pinchot, of Pike County.

Mr. Alter is backed by our present Governor Sproul, and to many voters who admire the present incumbent, his backing of Mr. Alter is sufficient for their decision in his favor.

Mr. Fisher, an eminent man is said to be a close associate of Mr. Alter, and, in fact Fisher is also declared to have discussed with Mr. Alter the details of Fisher's platform before the former announced his intention of seeking the office. Naturally, enough it would seem that now with Fisher out of the fight, Alter will endeavor to further some of the Fisher principles as well as his own.

Fisher has not definitely taken a stand for either of the candidates, but it is felt he will favor the Alter side.

A great hue and cry is being raised over the fact that Alter is the candidate of the bosses of Philadelphia and of Pittsburg.

Perhaps they are supporting him, but is he supporting them? Can one point to an instance where he has jumped to the crack of a boss' whip? In fact, he has as yet been unbridled, and has ever taken the course of his own convictions in the discharge of his office as attorney-general.

None of the contractor faction were among his original supporters, at least, and now if they have aligned their forces behind him, we are quite certain that he is not going to be led about by the combine, having never yet done so. We feel that he will not.

Mr. Pinchot has declared his antagonism against the "combine" and threatens to clean house and a lot more if he is elected. That sounds very fine, and makes excellent oratorical thunder to put into the ears of the unthinking who do not stop to analyze his words, and fully regard his meaning. So much for a destructive program, but what constructive ideas does he intend to carry out for the good of the State.

Does Mr. Pinchot expect to operate on the State systems as he does upon the State forests? Pinchot is an unexcelled forester, but it is one thing to prune trees and another to prune the expenses of a Commonwealth. Pinchot knows all about forestry, but Alter knows all about State politics. Pinchot knows in what section to look for tree diseases, and how to cure the ills of the forest. Alter knows of the locations of the present evils of the political woods, and if he continues the fearless character he has already shown himself to be, he will know how to seek out out ills of state, and cure them by the pledges he has made to the people of the Commonwealth

Mr. Pinchot cannot hope to fight the Harrisburg devils with forestry. Mr. Pinchot knows how to fight these devils with fire, and use his long experience as a legal and political executive to do so.

If you want the old home place to look beautiful when the May flowers begin to be in bloom and Mother Earth takes on a brand new cloak of verdure, then you'd better begin cleaning up right now.

The Board of Health has sent out its ultimatum to the ones who have permitted their premises grow so untidy as to atrract unfavorable attention, and will soon take steps for the cleaning up of such places which are blots upon the civic countenance of a town.

We know there are but a few of such house owners who require the law of the authorities to force them to make their habitations presentable, but there are many places in town where a bit more pride of possession would help a lot in the general appearance of some of our streets.

An awry fence post, or an untrimmed hedge or lawn is nothing against the laws of health, but do detract mightily from the appearance of an otherwise attractive home.

And then, too, we are going to give the paint dealers a bit of free adertising. If there is anything in this wide world that helps to brighten up a home it is paint—either on an interior or an exterior.

"Clean-up week" is in order as warm weather approches. An hour each day for a short interval will work a lot of wonders with your home, your town, and your own personal pride.

The mystery of growing things was openly apparent to all who roamed the hills on Sunday, as nature was in its best Easter mood, and she spread joy everywhere.

The tiny green shoots of plant life rising out of the rotting ghosts of last year's leaves represented the perishibility of matter, and aroused in all the feeling of awe that comes to one when witnessing a marvelous or miraculous transformation.

Many hunted for the illusive trailing arbutus, of which the poets sing—"untouched, rare, virgin flower, etc."—yes untouched, possibly, because very few found it.

But there were plenty of other growing green things to delight the eye of the nature-lover, and the hikers enjoyed themselves to the limit of their endurance.

REMORSE.

Flappers, I'm sorry,
That I have panned you so;
Sorry that I've ridiculed you,
Sorry that I've often fooled you.
Wish I hadn't overruled you,
Gee! I'd hate to see you go.

Flappers, all maidens,
Makes no difference 'bout the size;
Or your bare knees showing dimpley,
Of your skirts worn oh so simply!
Or your bare back, sometimes pimpley,
We'd not have you otherwise.

Flappers, I'm telling,
You're all right, just as you are;
What if some do try to shame you,
Don't let Dame Grundy fame you,
While you play a good clean game, you
Have them all beat, yes, by far.

Henceforth, I'll boost you,
There's nothing I'd not help you do;
Jazz 'er up if you care to, dearie,
Cling to your rouge and lip stick smeary
Even cigarettes that make us weary
Can't spoil you quite, we do like you
Gene Byles.

Belinda settled her mother comfortably in a lounging wicker chair, then turned to the window.

"It's a glorious day," she said. "I like to go out and do something interesting."

The invalid mother sighed.

"I am sorry, my dear," she regretted, "to keep you tied to me like this, but you are my reliable. What would I do without my little Busy Bee? Claire and Cleo are such gay and happy butterflies that I have not the heart to claim their attention. Do you, Bee dear, ever feel that your sacrifice is too great?"

"Sacrifice!" jeered Belinda. "Why, I dote on taking care of you, mother. Also, I am no social success. Too much precious time wasted, in my opinion, looking after the necessary fixings to make one continually presentable. But today tempts me out of this gilded summer inn; where shall I go, mother, while you are resting and napping?"

"Horseback riding would be novel and interesting," mother suggested. "Why not try that? There's a reliable groom in the stables here, I am told, engaged for the purpose of teaching or accompanying guests."

"What a fine idea!" cried Belinda. "I'll go directly."

The gardens of the pretty summer hotel sloped back to turreted stables. Belinda noticed, as she passed the garage that her sister's automobile was absent. They were to drive today, she recollected, with a party, down the river road. A wealthy young Pittsburgher arrived at the fashionable summer settlement, and was being lavishly entertained.

Belinda stood in the barn doorway, looking about for the groom.

"Hello!" she greeted a youth seated near on an upturned pail. "I'd like to learn to ride horseback. Can you tell me where to find a groom?"

The man on the pail looked up. "I'll teach you," he agreed.

Belinda walked briskly past the stalls. "Pick a gentle pony," she ordered. "I will probably have a hard time hanging on, anyway. Where do we go to learn?"

"Meadow lane is the best place," said the young man as he was leading from its stall a black pony. Belinda considered the groom, as she waited. Mr. Butler, at that moment, entered the stable.

"I wish to learn to ride—" began Bee.

"And I have offered to teach her," interrupted the rosy-cheeked youth. "Tell her that I'm all right at the job, Mr. Butler."

The manager smiled. "I expect is no more capable teacher, Miss Brownlee," he advised.

So Belinda mounted her pony.

"What shall I call you?" she asked the man walking at her side.

"Oh? Call me Johnny," he replied, indifferently.

Johnny was a painstaking teacher. Meadow lane, with its sweet scents and shadowy paths, was a delightful lesson place.

"Johnny," she asked one day, "are you Irish? You say things in the funniest way, and you've got a bit in your voice."

"No, I'm not Irish," answered Johnny. "But my grandfather was. Are you coming again tomorrow? You are doing fine."

"Yes, I'm coming tomorrow," said Bee, "and the morrow after that, if I may. Will you be busy soon, teaching someone else, Johnny?"

"Never," he answered promptly, "when I can be busy teaching you."

"But if Mr. Butler sends you out?" she questioned.

"I'll quit my job," declared Johnny, "unless he sends me out with you."

Belinda laughed, and the glow of her laughter was in her brown eyes when she sought her mother.

"I don't know," Belinda said, "when I have enjoyed anything as much as these riding days."

"Well, I am glad that someone has a good time," sighed the invalid, "for Cleo and Claire have come home disgusted. The same dull crowd at the drive again, they said, and the wealthy Pittsburgher still not in evidence."

Belinda chuckled. "Probably," she remarked, "the poor man had to run to cover, with so many fortune-hunting beauties on his trail."

"Johnny," she told the groom, some time later, "I am really sorry now that I can ride so well. There is no excuse for claiming your services. You have been so jolly and kindly and nice altogether that—I'm going to miss you, Johnny."

"You are not going to miss me," said Johnny decidedly. "As long as those high Brownlee relatives of yours let you out once in a while to ride, I'm going to be there. That is," he added, "unless you don't care to have me, Miss Bee."

"Why?" Belinda exclaimed. "Why, Johnny, The Brownlee relatives are my very own mother and sisters." (He thought I was sort of maid to the family, she reflected.)

The two young people sat on the ponies and stared at each other. Then Johny slipped down from his horse and came to Bee's side.

"Well, I love you," he said huskily, "whoever you may be. And I know—that you love me. We can fix it up all right with the family," added Johnny complacently. "I happen to be that rich Pittsburgher."

NEVER LINCOLN'S REAL LOVE

His Marriage With Mary Todd Seems to Have Been Largely Matter of Convenience.

Mary Todd, wife of Abraham Lincoln, was the sort of woman who is described as "capable and upright." Lincoln, it is testified by biographers, was not deeply in love with Mary, either before or after their marriage. As a matter of fact, his heart was buried in the grave of his first love; and he had proposed marriage to a second and unwilling young woman. By the time he married Mary Todd, who was neither beautiful nor gracious, he had come to regard marriage as a necessity rather than as the ultimate result of love and romance.

Their courtship was long and suffered many stops and separations before it culminated in marriage. When Lincoln first met Miss Todd she was only sixteen years old and was being courted by Stephen Douglas, the great man's rival in many things.

Lincoln had suggested in a rather offhand way that he would marry her. Apparently regret set in rather soon, for he made several attempts to gracefully withdraw from the compact. But Mary, with prophetic vision, had an idea that he would one day reach the White House and she was determined to be its mistress.

"Kidnap" Camera.

When you inquire about the big camera the station photographer uses in taking the 1½-inch square photographs for the 50-trip family ticket he says, oh, it is a special one we invented years ago for kidnaping.

"How do you number them?"

"It is a six exposure plate and each of those spaces on the sheet of paper corresponds to one on the plate. Each plate is numbered. We used to use this camera for kidnaping.

Then you swallow your pride and ask boldly:

"What do you mean—kidnaping?"

He laughs kindly at your ignorance.

"Why, you know," he says, "we take our camera and go out on the street and see a little boy and take his picture. We get his name and address. By and by, after we develop the picture, we go around to his home and show it to his mother. If she likes the picture, she buys one. That's kidnaping."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Furs.

Trapping is being carried on more extensively this season than for the last ten years, and the catch is abnormal, reports the manager of the Winnipeg Fur Auction Sales company.

Economic laws work as rigidly in the fur north as elsewhere. A short age of any commodity runs prices up. The high prices lure larger production. With the supply increased, prices slump. Then production falls off.

It's the eternal merry-go-round, with speculators playing the turn in the market.

He Found Himself.

The marshal had tumbled off a motorcycle and he was dead to the world when they carried him to the hospital. The next morning he woke up. Just as the doctor came around to see how the patient was getting along:

"Well, well, my man," said the doctor, cheerily, "how did you find yourself this morning?"

"I opened my eyes," said the Cyrene. "took a good look at the bed—saw some guy lying in it—and there I was."—The Lightercreek.

GAINS 23 LBS. AND IS NO LONGER A SUFFERER OF FEMALE TROUBLE

"I have suffered for years with female and stomach trouble. I have used many different tonics to effect some kind of relief but was not benefited by them.

One day a McNess Man came to my house and told me about F. W. McNess' Nutritive Tonic. I purchased three bottles of it from him and after taking the first bottle I was back on my feet.

I find no other tonic near as good. Before I started taking F. W. McNess' Nutritive Tonic I weighed about 124 pounds. I have now used three bottles of it and weigh 147 pounds. I wish to recommend your Nutritive Tonic to any woman in similar trouble as mine," writes Mrs. Wm. Pearson of Urbana, Ill.

Nutritive Tonic is a wonderful tonic for Old People, Weak People, Thin People, People suffering with Dyspepsia, Low Vitality, Thin Blood and Loss of Appetite, Anaemia, and General Debility. Young Mothers also find it a wonderful tonic to help them recover from the strain of mother-hood.

STILL HAS MANY FUR POSTS

Hudson's Bay Company Represented in Every Region in Which Pelts May Be Taken.

The Hudson's Bay company today has 155 fur posts throughout Canada. This is a greater number than it ever had before in its existence. They are scattered from the Arctic to the United States boundary and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, in whatever region near or far, furs are to be taken.

Fort McPherson and Arctic Red river are farthest north. The south ermost is North Bay in Ontario. Labrador, Ungava, the vast hinterland of Quebec, Ontario, and the northern portions of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are dotted with posts that fly the company's banner. Fifteen encircle Hudson bay. Two are in Baffin Land north of Hudson straits. From Edmonton to the Arctic, more than two dozen are scattered along the Peace and Athabasca rivers Athabasca, Great Bear lakes and the Mackenzie Valley. The fur country entrenches upon the very heart of civilization. There are Hudson's Bay fur posts within a hundred miles of Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Winnipeg.

FORGOT HIS CAB WAS THERE

Maj. Fitzroy Gardner was Sir Herbert Tree's manager for many years, and tells some good yarns about the famous actor, who was often absentminded.

"On one occasion, on leaving a house, not noting that there was a cab waiting, he hailed another and drove off elsewhere, the first driver, who knew his fare, following behind. After the next call he hailed a third cab, and so the actor arrived at his theater leading a little procession of cabs, and all three had to be paid for.

"When riding back to London from a country house near town where he had been spending the week-end, he became impatient, and stopped at a wayside inn, left his horse there, and hired a dog-cart for the rest of the journey. He quite forgot that he had not brought his horse back to the livery stable where it had its home until, several days afterward, it was led up to the stage door of the Haymarket theater, its owner having been recognized by the innkeeper."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Chinese Bezique.

Chinese bezique is booming in the London clubs just now. Chinese bezique is a development of the old game of bezique. It is played with six packs of 32 cards each. The scoring runs into high figures. Bezique and double bezique score as at the old game, 400 and 500, respectively. But it is possible to get treble bezique, which is worth 1,500 points, and quadruple bezique, which counts 4,500. Four aces of trumps score 1,000 points, and the winner of the last trick of the game gets 250 points.

Americans Consume Much Milk.

The average American today is a great milk drinker and consumes twice as much as former generations, according to the department of agriculture. The consumption of milk last year was estimated at 44 gallons for each person, not including that used in ice cream, cheese and butter.

FISHER DROPS OUT OF RACE FOR OFFICE

Philadelphia, April 13.—John S. Fischer, who yesterday resigned as state banking commissioner, last night announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania. He did not state specifically what had caused his action in either case.

Referring to his resignation as banking commissioner, Mr. Fisher, in a statement last night, said that a condition of affairs had arisen "which I consider made it impossible for me to continue as a member of the governor's official family."

In a statement addressed to the Republican voters of Pennsylvania regarding his withdrawal from the gubernatorial race, Mr. Fisher said in part:

"I shall not pose as a martyr. I simply want to be a good citizen and retain the friendship I value so highly. Grateful, indeed, am I for the good words and good wishes which have come in such full measure. I would not be worthy of such support if I could not rise to the duty of the hour. There need be no resignations, no charges.

"As I entered the contest without pledges so I retire as an active candidate free from all conditions.

"The issue will be clarified and simplified, and as my duty has been done, so your duty now remains.

"I propose to continue my efforts in the cause of good government."

Mr. Fisher's withdrawal leaves only two potential candidates for governor in the field—Attorney General George E. Alter and State Forestry Commissioner Gifford Pinchot.

ATLAS PORTLAND CEMENT

FROM many points of view, construction in the country is more important than city construction. Property is apt to be under the same ownership for a lifetime instead of a few years. Fire protection is not efficient at long distances. These and other angles argue for building well and permanently.

Your local dealer can help in your building plans. He has, or will get for you, accurate information on any work you have in mind. You can afford to rely on his experience and judgment.

Most permanent construction today is of concrete. For twenty-five years concrete has been tested on all types of building and has made good. For twenty-five years Atlas Portland Cement has been known as "the Standard by which all other makes are measured."
